

Service Learning: Nuts & Bolts Workshop

The Thompson Center, University of Nebraska Omaha
October 22, 2013

ServeNebraska, with sponsorship from State Farm, joined forces with the University of Nebraska Omaha Service Learning Academy to present a workshop providing insights in developing, implementing, and evaluating service learning initiatives in a way that furthers organizational aims, academic development, and civic engagement. At the event the 2014 Global Youth Service Day project funding opportunity, which uses service learning as a key component, was released.

BELOW: LEFT : The Thompson Center served as the site for the Workshop, providing a warm & inviting setting
MIDDLE: ServeNebraska Executive Director Cathy Plager welcomed attendees and introduced the Global Youth Service Day funding opportunity
RIGHT: Paul Sather & Pam Ashley of the UNO Service Learning Academy guide discussion

BELOW: LEFT : Laura Krueger of the UNO Service Learning Academy (in purple scarf) aids a participant
MIDDLE: Ricky Green an AmeriCorps*VISTA in service at Nonprofit Association of the Midlands explains Community Compass
RIGHT: Julie Dierberger of the UNO Service Learning Academy emphasizes a point.

